

Documentary 'The Voice of Peace - The Dream of Abie Nathan'.

Under directory of well-known German Eric Friedler, production from Silke Schütze and editor Patricia Schlesinger, the documentary 'The Voice of Peace - the dream of Abie Nathan' will be shown for the very first time for a selected group of persons in Hamburg in December. This will be the premiere for those who worked together with the team in the documentary.

A radical dreamer and a rebellious visionary; the Peace activist Abie Nathan was his time - with disarmed directness - far ahead. He was the man behind the Voice of Peace project, the radio station which was on the air between 1973 and 1993 aiming the programs to all the inhabitants from the several countries in the Middle East. But he also tried to get the struggling parties over and over again together, to talk about Peace, something he did far before the Peace talks between PLO and Israel took place in 1991 in Oslo.

In the documentary all this important work will be highlighted as well as Abie Nathan's humanitarian work he did all over the world for decades. Next to a lot of exclusive footage around 40 persons are interviewed for the project like: President Schimon Peres van Israël, Yoko Ono, Sir Michael Caine, Hans Knot, Don Stevens, Robbie Owen, John McDonald en Mark Hanna.

It was Hans Knot who followed Abie Nathan intensive since they met for the first time in 1968 and he published in 2006 the book: Voice of Peace Memories and Abie Nathan's work; which was a welcome help for the production team.

'The Voice of Peace - The dream of Abie Nathan' will be shown on German Television (Das Erste ARD) for the first time on Tuesday January 7 2014 at 22.45 CET.
